Hot cross buns are a traditional food prepared and eaten on Good Friday, with the cross on the bun symbolic of the Crucifixion. Legend says that sharing a hot cross bun with another will ensure friendship throughout the coming year. If you're into travel by boat, bake up a batch and bring them with you - another lore says hot cross buns protect against shipwreck. Some say that the buns baked on Good Friday will never spoil (but we hope you enjoy this treat long before it gets the chance!).
